

Shannon Cooney is Canadian dance artist, choreographer, dance educator, and Craniosacral practitioner based in Berlin. She also works as a creative facilitator for choreographers as well as students. She has been creating and touring her choreographic work since 1992, which includes stage work, landscape art, video installation and performance installations. She has developed teaching practices called Dynamic Expansion/Moveable Cinema which she teaches locally and internationally, they are an embodiment approach and evolved by a melding of her work in dance and in Craniosacral bodywork. As a gardener, she tends her own organic permaculture-based garden in Berlin with her life-partner.
